TALKING WITH CARING ADULTS:

A Conversation Guide for Foster Youth

Every year, 5,000 foster youth across California “age out” of the system. Too often, many have little or no support as they learn to become adults. However, in California, the passage of the California Fostering Connections to Success Act (AB12 and AB212) has ensured the continuity of care through the development of Extended Foster Care (EFC) to eligible young adults until age 20. This important legislation has created a safety net for young adults and a supportive environment to develop and acquire independent living skills needed to not only survive, but thrive in today’s world. The new law will allow eligible foster youth to stay in the system longer, receive additional supports in supervised settings while they work, finish school or other training to enable them to successfully transition to independent adulthood
